ST. LOUIS, Mo. (April 23, 2020)--idX Corporation, the global solution provider for consumer environment design, manufacturing, and installation, has developed new products to protect against the spread of the coronavirus and keep its U.S. factories staffed.

Essential businesses such as grocers, convenience stores and food service are turning to idX for creative, reliable, and sanitary solutions to keep their associates and patrons safe. The organization has quickly shifted focus from traditional manufacturing to providing protective solutions to consumer-facing essential retailers. idX's new partitions have customizable installation options for every environment and are a durable solution to facilitate socially distanced person-to-person transactions.

idX is manufacturing over 25,000 partitions among its six manufacturing locations across the U.S.
